EARLY EDUCATION WORKSHOP

Portland Christian

Portland, OR

February 1, 2025

Welcome to ACSI Early Education's Anchored Event! It's so good to be together!

We're so glad you're here. We're all engaged in a process of anchoring and grounding ourselves in biblical truth and providing our students and families with transformational teaching. As Christian educators, your calling is to be Christ-centered and child-focused while anchoring your teaching on competency-aligned, biblically infused instruction. That's a tall order, but that's what today is all about. Equipping you to meet the needs of the children you serve as well as refilling your own tank and tool kit.

We've got content that will encourage you, inspire you, and equip you for the work God has called you to. Today has been planned and prayed over with you in mind. Our speakers will share from their hearts and experience as professionals committed to furthering faith-based early education.

Today is also about thriving from shared experiences! It's all about being STRONGER TOGETHER to serve our school populations, to serve each other, and ultimately, to serve the Lord! Enjoy your day together. Meet someone new today.

If we can be of assistance to you or your early education program in any way, please don't hesitate to let us know. We're here to serve YOU!

A Guide to Language Fundamentals: Reframe What You Know About Language Development
We use language on a daily basis to get survival and to improve our overall quality of life. What happens when language acquisition doesn't go as planned? How does reaching milestones change in the face of a pandemic? This lecture will explore a discussion of the 2020 update on developmental milestones, how Covid has impacted the development of children (specifically those under the age of 5), and what activities can be included in the classroom to help Covid kiddos to catch up.
Presenter: Gilda Paredes EE Competency: Child development and Learning Cognitive

Anxiety in Young Children
Anxiety is rising in our societies as the world becomes more complex. Many early educators are seeing an increase in extreme behaviors in young children while at the same time seeing a decrease in professionals willing to assess and treat children under the age of six. The result is that many early educators feel unable to maintain classroom control with children with extreme behavioral expressions. Join Dr. Kristi Martin-Smith for this biblically integrated session that will challenge typical views of extreme behaviors in young children and open eyes to the effects of anxiety, a topic that is under-researched in early education.
Presenter: Kristi Martin-Smith EE Competency: Relationships, Interactions, and Child Guidance

Assessing Spiritual Development of Young Children
Faith development and matters of the heart (dispositions) are areas where assessment is either viewed as too difficult or not possible to assess. However, like matters critical to one's mission not only is assessment of the expected outcomes an important exercise, but it is possible. After a brief introduction of some early childhood assessment principles, Dr. Mit Uecker will share information on how to set up a spiritual assessment plan and the means whereby the assessment data can be collected during early childhood. Participants consider the answer to these critical questions: What are some examples of measurable faith related outcomes? Can worldview be measured in young children? How can valid and reliable data be collected? What are the benefits of the deity?
Presenter: Mit Uecker EE Competency: Child Development and Learning Spiritual

Avoiding Burnout
As the school year begins, we want to run the race with endurance and finish each year strong. Join Angela Coenick, a seasoned early educator and director of early childhood programs in CA, HI and internationally, as she shares helpful tips to avoid burnout and finish your year just as strong as you began it.
Presenter: Angela Coenick EE Competency: Professionalism

Become a 5 STAR Environment
The health and safety of our children should be a top priority! Let's discuss some of the most common deficiencies cited in child care centers and learn some practical ideas we can incorporate to minimize accidents, germs, and oaches to become a 5 STAR environment.
Presenter: Cindy Meier EE Competency: Health, Safety and Nutrition

Biblical Integration Throughout Your Curriculum
Biblical integration is a distinctive of Christian early education. Join Joannie Forrest to learn practical tips and ideas to biblically integrate throughout the curriculum and within the classroom.
Presenter: Joannie Forrest EE Competency: Learning Environment and Curriculum

These meetings provide early education leaders an opportunity to share ideas and challenges and engage in building biblical community. This professional learning community (PLC) analyzes evidence-based leadership and instructional practices that are informed by current data. We use shared knowledge to cultivate expertise, guide our decisions, and enable early educators to make changes quickly based upon the needs of young learners and their families. We will also review best practices in implementing each of the Flourishing School Culture domains with industry experts. Attendance at the live meeting is eligible for CEUs. Recordings are available in the ACSI Leadership Network - Early Education Community.

There are many ways to connect, be encouraged, network, stay informed, and obtain professional development from a Christian worldview. Here are some of those opportunities planned in 24-25.

Workshop Description

Nurturing Creativity and Joyful Learning Through Play and Art

To unleash transformative teaching, we must anchor our early childhood experiences in God's Word, and understand that children have been wired to inquire and to explore. Our job in teaching is to inspire creativity within our classrooms by providing engaging, playful, hands-on experiences. Learning is enriched when we intentionally make meaningful connections with the instructional content throughout our day while using play as a vehicle to engage children in the learning process. This scaffolds learning in all domains of learning to provide a rich Christ-centered, child-focused experience.
