

ACSI Statement on Human Sexuality

ACSI holds to historic, orthodox Christian belief, namely that sexuality is a gift from God to be expressed exclusively in marriage between a man and a woman. In addition, our member schools sign a Statement of Faith holding to 2,000 years of Christian teaching that asks all followers to abstain from any sexual activities outside of a one-man, one-woman marriage.

Teachers are asked to believe, model and instruct students on all matters of the faith, including its doctrines. Consequently, we find it reasonable to require teachers, of any faith, to model what they teach in their own lives. The Christian life is not simply a passing of knowledge from one generation to another; it is about a life lived in community and unity with God's standards, as well.

- ACSI created in 2023 a globally informed document by a team of fifteen leaders from ten nations to help Christian schools and school associations around the world discern appropriate policies related to human sexuality and culture, ACSI's Guiding Principles on Biblical Sexuality is designed to be Christian and thus transcends any particular culture.
